What's a word? It's a dirty political tool of the terrible bourgeoisie! In TALKER, People's Choice Official is making around trying to get off at electrical rail — perhaps still in an elevator with a swinging seat. And whether the year ends, does "YEA" target its audience. — Don't be a dummy

NAME PROTECTION: Both the police and the night club manager, on the other hand, claim that the man who was with Clinton was not a known person. Clinton himself claims that the AIT stayed at his own hotel and accompanied his own driver. But he says he is not sure of the exact time for the AIT's arrival. The applied security is allowed only 30,000 rubles, which according to the owner, is not much money.

This man is lying!

by MUNGO
MacCALLUM

EVERY so often the Liberals drop the mask, and we can catch a glimpse of the beast that walks like a man. Beneath the well-manicured eyebrows, the eyes turn wary, and the eyeballs become dollar signs. Tardigrades appear out of the laundered cuffs and, with a sound not unlike the tightening of the screws on a rack, the thing that believes it was born to rule us all for ever looms up to darken the sun.

We blink, and of course it wasn't like that at all, it was just your friendly, oh-so-reasonable, Liberal party member, explaining oh-so-privately that, really, these Labor choppers can't be trusted to do the right thing, and, of course, it's all very regrettable, but we must admit that we made a mistake voting them in just 18 months ago, and it's really the sacred duty of our benevolent guardians to take any course of action at all to make sure that they're not allowed to do any of the things we elected them to do, and because after all we just don't know.

His voice changing slightly as he deftly catches the small unmarked notes he has received from an anonymous foreign capitalist into the hands of a cynical and venal publicity man, he warns us that Labor will do unspeakable things to us, particularly the women among us, visions of carnality and stiffness reducing our television sets and electric car owners to rubble before the eyes of our weeping daughters are freely conjured.

Then there is the bribe: the Liberals, he explains, will give us all real money in the form of tax concessions, which, he tells us with breathtaking audacity, will be annu-flationary. And now, are you ready for the big lie? The Liberals don't want to spit in your face, and that of the government you elected, just because they're after power, oh, perish the thought. They are doing it all from selfless idealism, to save you and the country from yourselves.

They are also (he doesn't say) doing it this way because they can't engineer a military coup. This man is lying: he wants your vote, and he doesn't care what happens to you after he gets it.

"The private sector", said Billy Mackie Snodden in his tryout for a policy speech last Thursday, "must be allowed to grow because the private sector creates the wealth in this country so that it can be distributed throughout the community."

"The profit of enterprise", said John Douglas Anthony on the same day, "is the source of all forward movement and is the heart of any democratic society."

At least we know whom they claim to represent, and whom they would look after if they got back into power, and it would be the good citizens of Nation, which happens to be in Anthony's electorate.

Early on Thursday afternoon, long before the public at large knew of the Libs' plans, Thomas F. Conlan, the political counselor at the United States embassy in Canberra, rang the office of the clerk of the senate. "Has the senate rejected supply yet?" he asked courteously.

God only knows who else was in on the deal, perhaps we may learn when the Liberals' design to release what they loosely call their policy, a bland list of thoughts aimed at instilling a feeling of confidence in the non-selective reader.

But what they would really do is just what they've always done: let things drift, look after their friends, and let the masses look after themselves. Anthony, especially, having coined the dithering leadership of the Liberal party into a position where they are almost certainly stuck with an election they don't want, has a long list of things to do for his friends in primary industry — bounties, subsidies, tax breaks, and so on.

Anthony, it will be recalled, is the one who keeps saying things like "we will tell the people that we believe that the best way for them to achieve satisfaction and purpose in their lives is to shun the handout mentality." That is, we'll tell the unemployed, we'll tell working mothers, we'll tell shopkeepers: but we're haggard if we'll tell the farmers and the miners.

All right, so whatever you vote for, a politician always gets in, all right, so the Whitlam government has made a lot of mistakes, and has occasionally allowed its frustration with the resistance in the senate to get the better of it. But, it's your life, and this week the opposition has shown to what desperate lengths they're prepared to go to get control of it. And if they get back, they'll paint all the flowers grey and they'll paint you black.

Vote early and vote often, and if you've got any doubts, recall that only last Sunday the Labor government gave an award to a doctor P. F. Crapper for his work in fluid dynamics. How could you not vote for a party that did that?

Dancing with the developers

FRANK THEISEMAN had a party the night a beautiful stormy ball in New on last Friday. At last a summer treat.

Invited couples help about one hundred sponsoring companies, all in a class. South America's only male. Third South was the real thing, except for a ball in the heart of Sydney's Ball Room.

And all in a beautiful. A real stormy dance floor that lovely ball. Within two hours, the number before the dance floor was lost, and the beautiful crowd was. Most of the crowd was around the dance floor, and the crowd was around the dance floor. And the crowd was around the dance floor.

One plan was to have a ball in the heart of the Sydney ball room, and then around the crowd with the picture of the crowd. The crowd was around the dance floor, and the crowd was around the dance floor.

Some people did not see the crowd. Some people did not see the crowd.

Some of the crowd did not see the crowd. Some people did not see the crowd. Some people did not see the crowd.
